

Student Evaluations Perception Survey

Many Schools and Departments choose to use EEE for official, online final evaluations. In Fall 2009, we conducted a survey to assess UCI students' opinions of the EEE Evaluations system. 1,830 students participated. Here are several excerpts from their responses:

79% prefer evaluations to be open for two weeks or longer

47% rated the number of department- or school-scheduled emails as 'just right'

72% rated the duration of their Fall 2009 evaluations as 'just right'

76% want to know more about how their responses impact teaching at UCI

Clearing up Misconceptions

We noticed there were a few misconceptions we'd like to clear up!

Anonymity – Yes, evaluations are completely anonymous

Results & alphabetic participation lists are in no way associated with each other.

✉ Emails – Departments and Schools schedule email reminders

Email reminders are scheduled by departments and schools. A student who completes an evaluation receives no further email reminders for that evaluation, no matter how many future emails are scheduled.

Duration – Departments and Schools control length of time and when evaluations are opened/closed.

Evaluations can be open up until the Registrar's final grades deadline (Usually 5pm, Thursday after finals).

Contents – Departments and Schools choose the questions

Departments and schools can create evaluations with custom questions and answers covering the aspects of the class they wish to evaluate.

Impact – Evaluations do have a real impact on teaching at UCI

Your instructors & TAs come up for periodic review; evaluations are considered as part of merit and review decisions.
