

Ac Eng 29: Graduate Writing for Scholarly Publication

OPEN TO STUDENTS
FROM ALL
LANGUAGE
BACKGROUNDS!

AE 29 (Graduate Writing for Scholarly Publication) is designed to help graduate students in the preparation of a conference paper or journal manuscript for publication.

In this course, students will:

- ▶ learn how to write for academic publication in their fields
- ▶ understand plagiarism and source use conventions
- ▶ work on a writing project you bring (e.g. conference/journal paper, etc.)
- ▶ receive individualized feedback through one-on-one writing tutorials

This course is for graduate students from any discipline, and would be most helpful for those who are in the process of preparing to publish.

COURSE OFFERING FOR WINTER 2021:

Enroll today!

20170 Sok, S. Tu 12:30-2:20p

Dr. Sarah Sok is a Lecturer and Academic Coordinator in the Program in Academic English. She received her Ed.D. in Applied Linguistics from Columbia University and has experience teaching writing to graduate students at Columbia University and UC Irvine. She has published in major journals in the field of applied linguistics.